

The 2000s Are “Under Construction”

This represents the newest addition to Saturday Nights Were Special. We’re working hard in our spare time to put the finishing touches on this up and down decade.

Who will forget the high point of the 2000s when Chris Bruton saw the Memorial Cup fall apart in his hands on national television in May 2008?

And it’s impossible to forget the incredible accomplishments of Spokane’s own Tyler Johnson with the Chiefs in this decade.

We’ve collected huge amounts of new photos and great stories that will all soon be part of Saturday Nights Were Special2.

Be sure to pre-order your copy.
